

Dr. G Goes to Manhattan!

As many of you may already know we have recently opened our new office in midtown Manhattan. We have done this for a variety of reasons so let me explain:

For many years several of our patients who live and/or work in midtown have asked us if there was any chance of our treating them in the "city". Until recently this presented several problems for us; the least of which was an actual facility that met our professional and personal needs. Being the computer nerd that I am, I needed a facility that had all of the diagnostic and treatment tools both I and my patients were used to in Garden City. Coincidentally I met a dentist who was interested in sharing his office with us and who was as interested in technology as I am. This was a unique opportunity and one that I just couldn't pass up.

Secondly, we have also had requests from many of our existing patients to treat their family, friends and business associates who live or work in Manhattan but found it difficult due to time limitations to get to our Garden City office. Now we are able to accommodate these requests as well.

Finally, New York City is just a great place to visit. We are located within walking distance of Fifth Avenue and Central Park. Our treatment room windows actually overlook the beauty of the park and when time permits, we can even window shop at some of the incredible stores located just around the corner. After hours, there is no better place to dine than New York City. As a matter of fact, should the need arise our new Concierge would be happy to assist you in obtaining dinner reservations or even theater tickets after your visit to our office. New York City is a special place and we intend on creating a unique presence as we move forward with this new adventure.

We are currently working in Manhattan just one day a week on Wednesdays but have the opportunity to expand should the need arise. We are still actively practicing just as before in Garden City but have changed our office hours. We are now in Garden City on Mondays, Tuesdays and Thursdays to accommodate all of our Long Island patients. While in Manhattan we are able to provide the same types of services currently available in Garden City with a special emphasis on Cosmetic Dentistry.

If you have any questions or would like to talk with us about this exciting addition to our professional lives please give us a call. We are extremely excited about this new office and would love to share this excitement with you. As always we welcome the referral of your business associates, friends and relatives now both in Garden City and New York City!
